It is with pleasure that I am recommended Quercus Solutions as a highly capable partner in information technology support and enhancements.

Quercus has maintained a very positive and progressive relationship with ASEBP for over seven years. During that time, Quercus has sought to always be on the leading edge of technological opportunities and has expanded their tool kit significantly. In turn, they have consistently brought best practices to the table.

Through Quercus' dedication to immersing into an organization's world and understanding its philosophy, along with its business and system needs, we have been repeatedly impressed with the final products.

Quercus' dedication to an unparalleled rigor of monitoring, budgeting and documenting, as well as their agility to adjust when we experienced internal changes that impact them, has allowed us to always stay on track with requested deliverables. In addition to their approach is their very positive attitude – our team truly enjoys interacting with them.

I would highly recommend Quercus to any organization looking for success in their information technology work, and would gladly discuss in more detail our experience.

Yours truly,

Jennifer Carson, BBA
